

Evolving through Uncertainty Jon Fussell

The current pandemic has altered our way of doing business, perhaps permanently in some ways. As a result, some potential blind spots or weaknesses within teams who are now distributed full time have been magnified. True leaders with a mindset of continuous improvement and the ability to leverage the collective mental horsepower of their teams will maximize their success.

This client approved presentation will arm you with insights and tactics you can implement immediately to become a more adaptive and effective leader during times of crisis.

Jon Fussell spent his entire 20-year naval career in the Naval Special Warfare community. Over the course of multiple combat deployments to Iraq and Afghanistan, he led our nation's most elite special mission units on hundreds of direct-action combat missions. Jon served in tactical leadership roles on SEAL Teams Three, Ten, Four; and SEAL Delivery Vehicle Team Two, prior to becoming a Troop Commander at Joint Special Operations Command's Naval Special Warfare Development Group. Among many awards, Jon earned four Bronze Stars with Valor, and two Presidential Unit Citations.
