

Driving Employee Engagement in the New World of Work

Chase Sterling, PartnerWell, The Partners Group

Almost every workplace today is struggling to find and retain talent. Additionally, events such as the global pandemic, social justice movements, the economy, and political outlook has greatly impacted employees' attitudes and relationship with the workplace. In this breakout session we'll discuss how to properly define and measure employee engagement, how to break down silos to build a holistic engagement strategy and provide with you a few simple actions you can take right now to improve the climate at your organization. Full of best practices and case studies, you will walk away reenergized to improve employee engagement at your organization.

Chase Sterling is the Managing Consultant of PartnerWell, a division of The Partners Group and is the Founder of Wellbeing Think Tank. She is passionate about improving the world by improving workplaces and loves to develop and drive evidence-based strategies to improve employee engagement and experience.

With over 20 years of experience, and an educational background in Human Physiology and Industrial/Organizational Psychology. Chase brings a unique perspective to any conversation with her diverse workplace experiences including holding roles at Google, Cigna, Wounded Warrior Project, and the University of Dayton. She is a nationally known thought leader in workplace wellbeing and is currently researching how the intergenerational workforce talks about work on social media.

Chase is also an Army veteran having served honorably for 7 years. You can review her experiences and connect with Chase on LinkedIn.