

Healthcare Ecosystems of the Future: The Next Wave of Healthcare Innovation

Daniel Corliss, Health Plan Advisor, Healthcare Venture Capitalist & Angel investor

This will cover market trends in health plan design, strategy, networks, administration, and technology as well as how those trends may continue to evolve with my outlook on what to expect 2, 3, 5, 10 years from now. Attendees will learn everything from how health plans are designed and built, how data flows through the ecosystem, the difference between health insurance and healthcare, vendor integrations, limitations, & capabilities, and the many different technology and data tools available to them now - and in the future.

Daniel Corliss is a Health Plan Advisor and Healthcare Venture Capitalist & Angel investor with backgrounds and interests touching every corner of the healthcare industry. With experience ranging from the front lines of clinical care, wellness & pop health, data & analytics, reinsurance, pharmacy, plan administration, mergers & acquisitions, and much more, there is sure to be much to cover for The Future of Health Plans & Technology presentation.

Outside of work Daniel enjoys long road-trips and travel of all kinds, whitewater rafting, golfing terribly, and every now and then enjoys a robust cigar and iced tea.